But i need to do the same thing for writing a nice and aseptic code. Is there any way to do the same thing by intioal class method, how to make auto-completion with the String.fromCharCode(int value) method I have to call String.fromCharCode(int value) in hundreds of places to get a String. Please let me know how to make it. Thanks in Advance. A: If you really want to do this, add your own method. The real problem here is you really don't want to do this. You have already seen that you cannot use String from CharCode because it cannot convert to U+0000. Creating an internal class and adding this method is just the wrong way to do this. Class should be classes with interfaces and enums should only be enums. All of your JVM languages have access to the Unicode libraries,
